Objectives

At the end of this course, participants should be able to:

- Analyze a basic ECG and explain some common deviations
- Identify criteria for ICD implantation
- Report the current options for management of AF
- Explain function, criteria for implant and follow-up procedure options for ICDs
- Compare differences in administration of drugs for acute and chronic arrhythmias
- Describe some real-life common arrhythmia cases and understand choices for best management of patients
- Describe resynchronization therapy for heart failure, including its risks and benefits
- Identify the common mechanisms and therapies for various SVTs
- Describe best practices for working with physicians in treatment of patients with AF
- Identify special issues in care of pediatric patients with ICDs
- Describe the unique end-of-life issues that patients with ICDs face and use appropriate methods in dealing with them
- Identify deviation from the normal in pacemaker behavior

Purpose

Inform nurses and other allied health professionals who see patients with arrhythmias about the best options for care in a variety of settings.
